Key UL Certification Awarded for Photovoltaic Modules and Panels

Jetion Holdings Limited (AIM: JHL), the manufacturer of solar cells and modules, is pleased to announce that its Chinese subsidiary, Jianguyin Jetion Science and Technology Co. Ltd, has been awarded the key Underwriters Laboratories (UL) Certification in the US and Canada for its quality photovoltaic modules and panels.

This certification recognises the systems and technology that Jetion has in place, enabling the Company to manufacture high quality solar modules and panels to an international standard. Jetion exports the majority of its products into European markets, and this certification will give Jetion significant leverage in developing new markets such as the US and Canada.

Lijin Gai, Chief Executive of Jetion, commented:

"UL Certification increases customer confidence in our products which will in turn allow Jetion to expand its customer base, initially in the US and Canada. This development demonstrates that operations continue to progress successfully, in line with the Company's aim of enhancing shareholder value in the longer term."

About UL Certification

UL is an independent product safety certification organisation that tests products and establishes safety standards. UL is the leading product certification company in the renewable and alternative energy testing industry, and the preferred choice of US regulatory officials.
